OUTCOME:

The interdepartmental seminar on “Trauma Spectrum: From Wounds to Critical Injuries” proved to be an informative and enriching experience for the 2nd BHMS students. The session provided a clear understanding of trauma in its various forms, ranging from superficial wounds to complex, life-threatening injuries.

The pathological insights covered the mechanisms of injury, stages of wound healing, and systemic consequences of severe trauma such as haemorrhagic shock and multi-organ failure. The microbiology segment emphasized the risk of wound infections, the role of common and opportunistic pathogens, and the importance of early detection and antimicrobial management.

The seminar bridged clinical relevance with theoretical knowledge, encouraging a multidisciplinary approach to trauma management. It fostered better comprehension of both diagnostic and therapeutic aspects crucial to holistic healthcare practice.
