

Information and Health Education Services regarding Sexual & Reproductive Health

The University features a robust healthcare system through its teaching hospitals, which include Parul Sevashram Hospital, 2 Ayurved hospitals, and 4 Homeopathic hospitals—all accredited by NABH in recognition of their commitment to excellence. Additionally, the clinical laboratory holds NABL accreditation, reflecting the University's consistent dedication to maintaining high standards of quality.

Among the University's distinguished academic programs are the Master of Surgery programs in Prasuti Tantra & Stri Roga and in Obstetrics & Gynecology, highlighting its commitment to advancing specialized medical education.

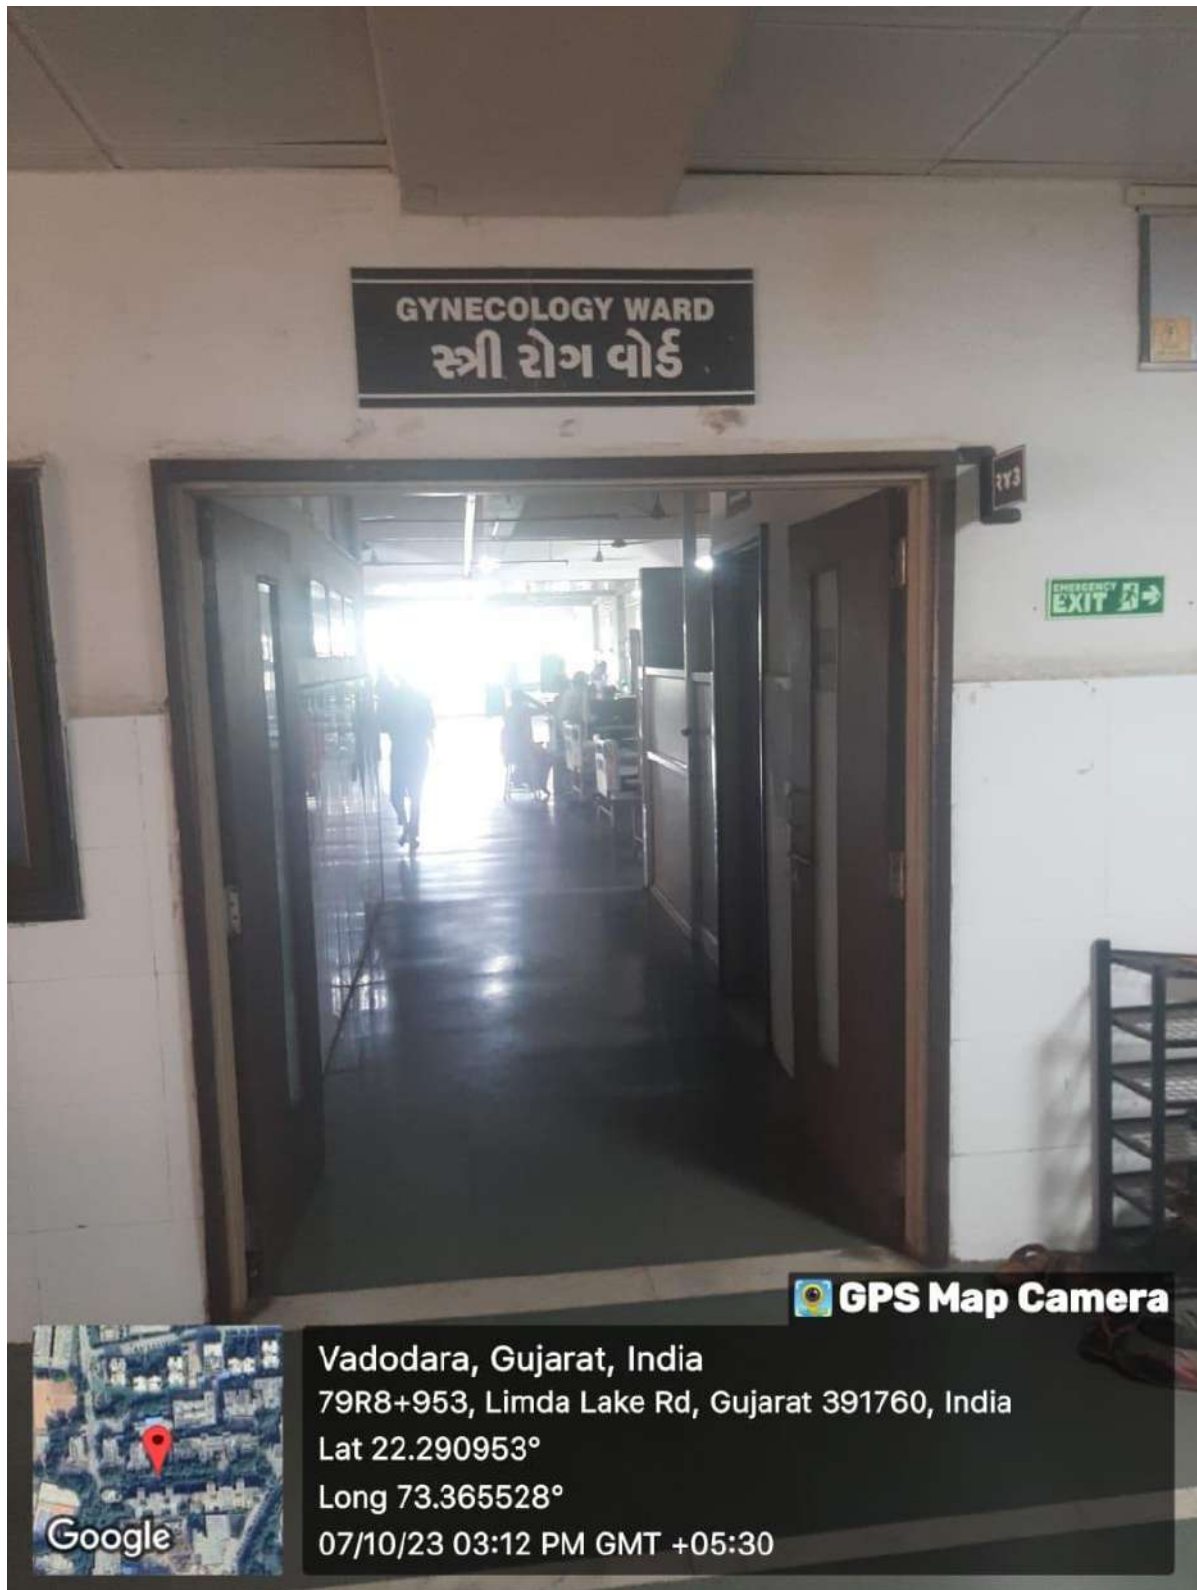

Each hospital within the University's network features dedicated departments and wards for Obstetrics & Gynecology, ensuring focused and personalized care for women's health. Collectively, the hospitals provide a total of 147 beds, including ICU facilities, 5 operation theaters, and a specialized labor room, equipping them to deliver comprehensive care. The presence of 30 experienced gynecologists further strengthens the quality of care offered.

Information and Education Services regarding Sexual & Health Care Services

Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology at Parul Sevashram Hospital, Parul Institute of Medical Sciences & Research is at the forefront in all education and awareness activities.

The Doctors did a series of activities for Breast Cancer Awareness, thereby counselling Asha workers and female patients for early diagnosis.

HPV (Human papillomavirus vaccines) vaccination; Myth and Fact session was done for the female students in the university wherein they were explained about the etiology of Cervical Cancer.

Industry sessions were conducted by Gynecologists, highlighting a lack of awareness when it comes to women's health, especially when it concerns gynecological issues. Women tend to neglect their reproductive health in the midst of their busy lives, which can lead to serious consequences in the long run.

Rotary club members of Vadodara organized the women's awareness program with the help of Dr. Komal Patel, Vice-President of Parul University.

Rural camps are arranged to address issues such as cervical cancer, sexually transmitted infections, and menopause.

Our aim is to do regular screening tests, make people aware of safe sex practices, and seek medical help when necessary. This can go a long way in preventing complications and ensuring a healthy life.

Objective:

- Awareness regarding the increasing infertility rates.
- Basis of approaching an infertile couple.
- Role of Panchakarma treatment in infertility management

Activity Details: The guest lectures on the occasion of World Infertility Awareness Month were conducted by Department of Prasuti Tantra evam Stree Roga (PTSR), Parul Institute of Ayurved, Parul University, on 22nd June 2023 at Library Seminar hall, Admin block. Approximately 130 delegates attended the event.

Lamp lighting was done by the guests and Dr. Hemant Toshikane, Dean, Faculty of Ayurved.

The gathering was given a brief introduction regarding the importance of month by Dr. Lumi, Associate prof, HOD of PTSR followed by a very informative session regarding the systematic approach covering chronology and the timings of the investigations to be done in an infertile couple by Dr. Nisha Panchal.

A very impactful skit was played by the 1st year PG Scholars of Dept of PTSR which gave the message of the importance of investigating the infertile couple simultaneously and that too on time.

The gathering was also addressed by Dr. Komal Patel, Trustee and Director (Medical and Paramedical) highlighting the need of creating awareness regarding the infertility issues in the periphery and also the importance of Ayurved in treating the infertile couple.

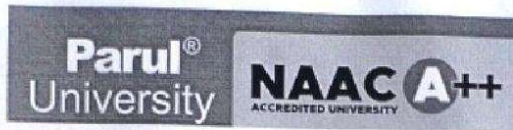

That was followed by the second guest lecture by Dr. Gita Tiwari, where a deep insight was delivered regarding the garbha sambhava samagri and the importance of shodhana kriya, panchakarma. Students and faculties had an interaction session after her speech.

Dr. Hemant Toshikane addressed the students and the faculties with his inspiring words and handed over the certificates and memento to the speakers.

Vote of thanks was delivered by Dr. Thulasi V S, Assistant prof, Dept Of PTSR.

REPORT

Date-30/09/2023

A program was conducted on the occasion of World PCOS Day and to mark the beginning of PCOS Awareness Month on 01/09/2023 in Seminar Hall, Parul Institute of Ayurved, from 10:00 am to 1:00 pm. The inauguration of the program was done by Dean Sir Dr. Hemant Toshikhane. After the Lamp lighting, there were two guest lectures, one by Dr Rita Parikh, Consultant Gynecologist, Parul Ayurved Hospital, on the topic Pathophysiology of PCOS. Another guest lecture was on Victory on PCOS through Ancient Ayurved Science by Dr Mansi Modi, Senior Medical Officer, Government Ayurvedic Hospital, Vadodara. Later, the guests were honored with a memento, and the announcement of the digital poster competition was made. The faculties, PG scholars, and 3rd-year UG Students attended the same.

A number of awareness talks were conducted at different institutes in PU in which hundreds of young women were made aware of what PCOS is, its pathophysiology, symptoms, and lifestyle changes to prevent as well as to cure PCOS. A total of 11 talks were conducted by faculties of the PTSR dept of PIA and PIAR at different venues inside PU. Along with these, multiple awareness talks on PCOS were conducted by PG scholars outside PU at residencies and camps. These helped women to diagnose early and have a visit to screen for PCOS at PAH.

A digital poster-making competition was conducted by our department in which participants were asked to send their posters to a concerned email ID, and 15 posters were selected for the 2nd round. In the second round, the participants of selected posters were asked to present their posters on 29/09/23. Participants showcased their creativity and knowledge through visually appealing posters that conveyed vital information about PCOS, its impact on women's health, and the available treatment options. The competition fostered a sense of responsibility among students and scholars to disseminate essential health information within the community. The best 3 posters were recognized for their outstanding contributions. The competition served as a successful initiative in promoting health awareness and fostering a sense of social responsibility among the participants. All the participants, including winners, were encouraged with E-certificates.

In the conclusion session of the World PCOS Awareness Month celebration, the whole month programs reporting was addressed by Dr. Lumi. The faculties, PG Scholars, and 3rd-year UG students attended the same. At the end, Dean Sir encouraged the whole PTSR department for the successful completion of the PCOS Awareness Month celebration.

Thus, various activities were conducted by the department on the occasion of World PCOS Awareness Month in order to make women aware of PCOS and its side effects. Overall, the event was successful with the support of Dean Sir and our Institute.
